

We know a high-quality,
world-class social care sector is possible. That's why UNISON is leading the way to a National Care Service for England, including a national Fair Pay Agreement for all care workers.

Together we can make care work.

Let's make care
work.

“We need a National Care Service the country can be proud of. That means treating our care workers, who deliver such a vital service in communities, with the respect they deserve.”

Christina McAnea

Care workers are the beating heart of a system that should look after our loved ones with dignity and compassion. Care workers must be valued, rewarded and recognised.

As the largest union in the care sector, UNISON is leading the campaign for a National Care Service for England and a national Fair Pay Agreement for all care workers.

We will work with the government as they deliver on their manifesto promises to: “Undertake a programme of reform to create a National Care Service, underpinned by national standards, delivering consistency of care across the country” and “Establish a Fair Pay Agreement in adult social care. This sector collective agreement will set fair pay, terms and conditions, along with training standards.”
