

Be the change: help shape your workplace

Are you the one that colleagues turn to when they need a friendly ear or some level-headed advice?

Do you spot things that could be done to improve life at work for colleagues and patients?

Ever find yourself wanting to speak up and question a situation?

If you answered yes to any of these, there are many opportunities to make a difference – and it all depends on what you are passionate about.

Find a role!

Could you be a steward? A union steward is a trusted staff member who can assist colleagues with their workplace issues. You'll be given support, mentoring and accredited training to help you offer expert advice, represent your colleagues, and bring issues back to the branch. Plus, depending on your workplace, you may have time off work for your union duties.

- ✓ Sick of seeing or experiencing unfairness or discrimination? Channel this passion by becoming an Equality Rep for women, Black staff and LGBT+ staff.
- ✓ Do you think of ways work can be safer for all? Step up as a Health and Safety Rep.
- ✓ Passionate about lifelong learning? Spread the benefits and help colleagues access professional development opportunities as a Learning Rep!
- ✓ You will be part of a dynamic network and integral part of your local branch, connecting with colleagues across the UK, and campaigning to improve your sector.
